To Whom It May Concern:

I would like to introduce you to Brandon Inman, an Intensive English teacher at the QSI International School of Shenzhen. I have worked with Brandon for two years during which time I served in my capacity as the Director of Instruction and Building Administrator.

Our school is an international school in Shenzhen, China, serving international students from over 40 different nationalities. Our curriculum is an American standards based curriculum focusing on a mastery approach. We strive to provide a learning environment that focuses on success orientations including responsibility, independent endeavor, trustworthiness, kindness and politeness, group interaction, aesthetic appreciation, and concern for others.

Brandon is a passionate, consistent teacher here at our campus. He is effective in the domain of planning and delivery. He bases instructional decisions on student assessments and achievement. His collaboration with his teaching team provides a greater improvement on students in the school, not only his own class. His instruction, assessment, and delivery closely align with curricular objectives. He is committed to provide learning essentials through differentiation and scaffolds for learning needs.

He is committed to being the best he can be. He seeks to improve himself and his students. He is reflective, and open to learning. He has engaged in professional development, and has a keen eye for how this translates into student learning. He establishes relationships with students and colleagues based on caring and trust.

His communication with parents regarding student learning has been helpful for parents. He understands how important the children are to their parents, and makes great efforts to helping children feel happy and comfortable at school as a foundation for risk taking and learning.

I recommend Brandon to any school, and welcome further communication at:
